

Additive International Summit 2020 cancelled over ongoing coronavirus crisis

After careful consideration, we sincerely regret that we have decided to take a precautionary approach and have cancelled this year's Additive International event due to concerns related to the COVID-19 outbreak.

We had been very much looking forward to welcoming delegates to Trent Bridge Cricket Ground in Nottingham later this year and were committed to doing everything we could to make the event a success. Whilst we are hopeful that the problems associated with the virus will have improved before the summit was due to take place, we do not want to risk contributing inadvertently to the spread of the virus by holding a mass gathering.

We regret that we have had to take this action, but it seems clear that it is the right and responsible thing to do.

Additive International will return in July 2021 and we will communicate the new date as soon as this has been confirmed.

In the interim, we are provisionally planning a one-day national event to be held in the autumn at the University of Nottingham, if we consider it is safe to do so. We will release details of that event in due course.
